

Data Protection Officer (DPO) Support for Schools

The role of a DPO in education is a specialist one, requiring a thorough understanding of GDPR, broader data privacy management and education management. The National Learning Trust is delighted to be launching this new service for schools throughout the UK in partnership with 123ICT providing DPO services from providers that you know and trust.

Engaging one of our Data Protection Officers (DPOs) for your school is a straightforward and risk-free process. Our DPOs will support your school for 12 months for an annual fee of £550 plus VAT and will provide you with an all-inclusive assurance package of:

- Video training for staff and governors;
- Helpline and email address for all queries GDPR;
- Remote compliance checks;
- DfE GDPR compliance guidance and model documentation;
- A point of contact for Subject Access Requests;
- Advice on Data Protection Impact Assessments;
- Support with data breaches and liaison with the Information Commissioners Office (ICO);
- Membership of our Data Protection Lead (DPL) online network for your school's named DPL;
- An NLT DPO who understands the needs of schools, school leaders and educators.
