

The Never-ending Theatre

By Danielle R

Welcome To

The Theatre!

It sounded like violin music but it was coming from the basement.....

Up high, beyond the clouds, sat motionlessly in between a pastry shop and the supermarket was The High Theatre, a place that every girl or boy dreamt of going.

But one day, it got abandoned and no one ever visited again.

DO NOT ENTER

The story of why it shut down is a story too long to tell.

And in the basement of that very theatre- which nobody ever knew about -is a whole other story.

Down deep, under the floorboards, where nobody dared of going was.....

:two ballerinas, Vanessa and Zoe, a violinist called Oscar, a drummer called Michael and the most beautiful of them all, Kitty, the princess of the ocean.

But in the darkest depths of the dustbin, was Marcel the dustbin King and his horrific troll sidekick, Adam.

Although everybody tried to be friendly to them, all Marcel wanted to do was play pranks on the theatre and ruin it for everyone.

One day, Marcel did the worst of his tricks and guess what he did.....

They tried to suck them up in a vacuum!

Zoe climbed onto the vacuum and started pressing buttons. She pushed on one and it turned the vacuum on, so she switched it back off again. Then Kitty pressed one and the plug came out of the wall and flew back into the Hoover, so they plugged it back in. Yet again, no surprise, Kitty pressed a button and it detached the end of it. It lay motionlessly on the hard concrete.

The last button.The red button.

"I'm not sure about this,"Zoe moaned.

So they both pushed it together.....and.....

POW...VRRRRMM.....POOF

Out shot
everyone!

The Never-ending Theatre

Marcel, the evil dustbin King and his minion Adam, a goblin, try to hoover up Kitty and her friends! To get them out, they had to do the one thing they dreaded.....

.....press the red button...